MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director (Research)

SUBJECT: Meeting with ONCART Contractors

1. The results of your recent meeting with Kelly Johnson concerning foreign object damage to engines has had a tremendous impact on Lockheed and the Lockheed personnel. Whether or not the additional procedures and care can prevent all future FOD remains to be seen, if nothing else, however, as a result of the confrontation, Lockheed has been stimulated to solve this problem. The apparent lethargy which had crept into Lockheed's work habits and the resultant poor management and careless procedures in truth only reflect a general trend in the ONCART Program which I am fearful is not limited to Lockheed alone.

2. I suspect that a temperature reading at the moment among our contractors would reveal little concern in their failure to meet schedules or to remain within their contract obligations. The ONCART Program, it would appear, must share its place with the "business as usual" approach. I agree that a direct parallel cannot be drawn between the results of the FOD meeting and another meeting concerned with the many pacing items now inhibiting the progression of the ONCART Program. I do feel, however, that there is a certain amount of application.

3. Although John Parangosky has repeatedly prodded and prompted the contractors, the ONCART Program in its present state does not enjoy the thrust and vitality that it once did. Even in our own shop, ONCART must take its place with the many other of our activities. It is not difficult to reason that with the outcrop of additional military programs and proposals now upon our contractors that their efforts are diversified and the once sharpness of focus is no longer attainable.

4. We have witnessed, however, that your meeting with Kelly has "re-focused" the Lockheed personnel concerning the importance and urgency of the ONCART Program. A similar stimulus is desperately needed with our other contractors. I propose that we arrange for a meeting of the key officials of the OXCART contractors at  in the very near future and have you reaffirm to them the position which OXCART holds among our national priorities. We would prepare for your discussion the various problem areas which we are now encountering in OXCART which could be called to the respective contractors' attention with an appropriate "shot in the arm" comment. A meeting such as this might go a long way in rejuvenating the OXCART Program and reestablishing it in the minds of the contractors as a program demanding the highest priority.
